

101453 Oral Medicine (1)

[1 cr., 1, 0] This course provides an introduction to the fundamental knowledge of pathogenesis, aetiology, histopathological features and diagnostic methods of diseases that affect the oral soft and hard tissues. Signs and symptoms of oral abnormalities are correlated with etiologic factors, and groups of symptoms are identified as reactive, neoplastic, infectious and developmental.

