

502471 Accounting Information Systems

[3 cr., 3, 0] This course examines the role and function of computerized accounting information systems in processing business transactions and storing accounting data necessary for planning, decision-making and control of organizations. The course also deals with how accounting information systems are created, implemented and controlled.

