

506342 Management Information Systems

[3 cr., 3, 0] This course introduces Management Information System and other related management concepts; MIS and their applications in business environment, MIS components, technology and infrastructure, development of MIS, information resource management, impact of MIS on individuals, business, and society. On labs training using Microsoft Access to develop selected applications of MIS.

