

506443 Management Information Systems (2)

[3 cr., 3, 0] This course introduces advanced concepts and applications of information systems in business environment. The course includes functional MIS, information systems for managerial decision support, information systems for strategic advantage, expert systems, strategic planning of information systems, integrity and security of information systems. Labs include using Microsoft Access to develop managerial applications (sample projects).

